

We say “no” to Community Mailboxes

CHNA is supporting the many seniors and people with disabilities who fear their health and safety could be put at risk, especially in winter, if Canada Post ends home mail delivery in favour of large, community mailboxes (CMBs). Other concerns include litter, accessibility, vandalism and theft – not to mention the impact on property values.

We are urging the city of Ottawa to join the 550-plus municipalities across Canada that have already demanded the continuation of home mail delivery until meaningful consultations occur and concerns are addressed.

Civic Hospital gets OK for move across Carling

Proposal draws mixed reaction, promise of community outreach

The federal government has cleared the way for the Civic Campus of the Ottawa Hospital to move across Carling Avenue to a 60-acre site at the northwest corner of the Central Experimental Farm. Local reaction to the November announcement has been mixed.

The hospital says it is working with our federal, provincial and city politicians to organize a public meeting (or potentially a string of meetings) to provide more information about the move and to answer residents' questions and concerns. Keep an eye on our website for further details.

Queensway Bridge Makeovers

Five bridges along our neighborhood's northern boundary are to be rehabilitated by the Ontario Ministry of Transportation (MTO). The bridges span Holland, Parkdale, Fairmont, Bayswater and the CPR/O-Train tracks.

CHNA reached out to residents in March for input on the MTO plans, and developed a detailed submission calling for safer, quieter, brighter and greener underpasses. The complete CHNA submission can be found on our website, under Planning and Development.

ELDER ABUSE — THE HIDDEN CRIME

Wednesday, May 6 – 7pm

Hintonburg Community Centre, Wellington Room

A conversation turns abusive, a relative demands money, a senior is neglected; this is Elder Abuse, and it's a crime!

Get the facts, know the signs and learn how you can help someone you care about. Guest presenters are Alison Timmons, Elder Abuse Response and Referral Services Coordinator, Nepean Rideau Osgoode Community Resource Centre; and Cst. Dawn Neilly-Sylvestre, Ottawa Police, Community Police Centre.

Join us for this free information session. All are welcome!

6th Annual Clean Our Parks Event

Sunday May 3 — 10 a.m. to noon — rain or shine

Reid, Fairmont and Ev Tremblay Parks

Pick a park and pitch in! Join your neighbours and help tidy up our public spaces. We'll provide supplies and refreshments for the whole family. Just bring your enthusiasm and community pride . . . and maybe a rake or two!

Safer Streets initiative

The CHNA 40 km/h campaign has helped reduce traffic speeds on participating streets, enhancing residents' safety and quality of life. We're now hoping to engage all our residential streets in the campaign.

In the coming weeks, street representatives will fan out to meet neighbours and request support through a 40km/h petition. Residents will also be invited to identify and help address "micro-local" traffic issues of specific concern to their street or block. We also welcome, at any time, your input about traffic issues. Contact us at traffic@chnaottawa.ca or check out the Traffic Committee tab on our website, chnaottawa.ca.

Calling All History Buffs

Do you have personal stories, historic photos or important documents about your home or our neighbourhood that would be of interest to others? Are you familiar with the heritage of some of our notable buildings? Would you appreciate a walking tour of our neighbourhood?

CHNA has launched a new History and Heritage (H&H) Committee! We'll soon be reaching out to residents for information about their homes—who built them, who has lived there—and stories about how our neighbourhood has changed over time. Stay tuned for a new H&H page on the CHNA website!
